

Extrapolating residence locations out of Metadata

David Diks, Mike Evers, Hein Dauven

October 4, 2017

Abstract

We attempt to find features that can accurately predict a user's place of residence in a set of social media data. This is done by first defining features and attempting to use machine learning to solve these problems

Part I

Finding features and test data